900 PERSONS ATTEND

Miss Mamie Holt Is Harvest
Queen—Part of Entertainment Outside.

Jonathan Cornstassel came to town Friday night and held forth at the Barnwarming in Rothwell Gymnasium, where nine hundred stalwart farmer boys and buxom maidens were his guests.

Arrayed in overalls, dairy suits, sunbonnets and many colored aprons, the guests crowded the dancing floor to the music of the ten-piece orchestra from 9 o'clock at night until 1 o'clock the next morning. For those who did not wish to dance a roaring bonfire was built on the cinder court west of the gymnasium, where, seated on bales of straw and protected from the wind by banks of sapplings, they consumed large quantities of gingerbread, cider, marshmallows, "wienies," pumpkin pie, sandwiches and pickles. Songs, games, contests and a possum hunt furnished the entertainment for the fresh-air seekers.

At 9 o'clock the results of the Harvest Queen election was announced, and Miss Mamie Holt was crowned queen by Dean F. B. Mumford. Shortly afterward dancing began and continued through the evening. Charlie Chaplin, a typical country swain in tight fitting coat, wing collar and flaming cravat, and a bewhiskered country sheriff attracted considerable attention.

The walls of the gymnasium were covered with corn-stalks and the ceiling was concealed by many-colored autumn leaves, through which the "electric" stars and a large moon shed a subdued light. Between dances, the guests were seated on bales of straw arranged along the walls. The volley-ball room was converted into an old fashioned country living room, with old furniture and hangings. Alcoves and secluded corners for those who wished to sit out dances were provided in another room.

The dance programs were in the form of checkbooks, each dance being recorded in this manner: "Pay to Johnnie Jones—one waltz—Signed—". All checks were honored. In the back of the book was another check which, when presented at the "Farmers' Bank," was good for one plate of "eats."

Between dances a substitute orchestra was provided in the basement by pens of pigs, calves, sheep and ducks. These furnished an abundance of "local color."

The chaperons were: President A. Ross Hill, Dean and Mrs. F. B. Mumford, Miss Eva Johnston, Director and Mrs. C. L. Brewer, Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Eckles, Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Connaway, Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Hughes, Prof. and Mrs. J. C. Whitten, Prof. and Mrs. M. F. Miller, Prof. and Mrs. E. A. Trowbridge, Prof. and Mrs. P. F. Trowbridge and Prof. and Mrs. C. R. Moulton.

NOTICE

This picture will be a profound disappointment to the morbidly curious, in so far as they will see nothing that is of obviously sensational nature. However, persons of real intelligence and believers in the demand that "light should be thrown upon the darker spots of life in order to protect the innocent and unwary" will find this picture a gripping and interesting entertainment and of incalculable educational value morally.—The Management.
